Benvenuti 2019 Malvasia — Istria, Croatia

$17.50 $94.50 $168.00

From the northern coast of Croatia just a stone's throw from Italy, this is a dry and refreshing white layered with floral aromatics, freshness, and minerality.

Stephen Ross 2018 Chardonnay — Edna Valley, CA

$21.00 $113.40 $201.60

Rich, soft, and decadent, this wine can make a Chardonnay lover out of anyone! Notes of ripe pear and apple perfectly balanced by gentle acidity and a luxurious oak accent.

Green Soul 2019 Organic Riesling — Rheinhessen, Germany

$15.75 $85.05 $151.20

This Riesling lands somewhere in the middle of the sweet to dry scale. While there's definitely some ripe berry character, it's backed by a food devouring acidity.

Moillard 2017 Bourgogne Rouge, Pinot Noir — Burgundy, France

$24.50 $132.30 $235.20

From one of Burgundy's oldest houses, this is classic Burgundian Pinot. Tart cherry notes are framed by baking spices and subtle earthy notes.

Feravino 2017 "Dika" Frankovka — Slavonia, Croatia

$14.00 $75.60 $134.40

The Frankovka grape is slightly better known as Blaufrankisch, but despite it's obscurity this is a friendly and versatile red. Soft and medium bodied with some dense dark fruit notes accented by smoke and spice.

Vina Amalia by Carlos Basso 2013 Cabernet Sauvignon — Mendoza, Argentina

$22.00 $118.80 $211.20

Cab drinkers willing to step outside of the California box will be rewarded with this luxurious wine. Big but balanced with just enough age to bring out its subtleties and soften it's rough edges.

Pamplin Family Winery 2017 Red IQ — Columbia Valley, WA

$18.50 $99.90 $177.60

Though this wine comes from Washington it's made by a former Napa Valley sensation and brings all the decadence of that region with it. This is a Cab Sauv based blend that is deep and dense with a warm and inviting oak presence.
